Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) Mobile App User Feedback Pilot Opportunity

This is So Cool!

Moms In Motion is so excited to invite you on behalf of ProEventa, to test their mobile app for people with autism (we think it's great for people with other developmental needs as well). This app is going to be AMAZING! It will give parents, caregivers and individuals a platform to track current and map out future progress on skill attainment and mastery in many areas. It also will likely be a great way to collaborate with all of the members of your personal developmental team!

Parents Needed to Test New Mobile Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) Solution:

We all want our children to grow and succeed, but figuring out how to accomplish this for a child with ASD can be challenging. ProEventa has developed a new mobile app for parents to help select, track and master individualized goals, as well as educate and collaborate with the entire care community around the child's strengths and needs. All of the information in the app is based on clinically-proven practices designed to improve both independence and the quality of life for the whole family. If you are interested in participating in the pilot, please send an email with your name, email address, and phone number to info@proeventa.com to participate in the no obligation trial.
